Acknowledgement of Country

The University of Melbourne acknowledge the Elders, and descendants of the Wurundjeri people who have been and are the Custodians of these lands. We acknowledge that the land on which we meet was the place of age-old ceremonies, of celebration, initiation and renewal, and that the local Aboriginal peoples have had and continue to have a unique role in the life of these lands.

Position Summary

The Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences is one of the leading schools of Psychology in Australia, with active research programs in Cognitive and Behavioural Neuroscience, Clinical Science, Cognitive and Mathematical Psychology, and Social and Personality Psychology. The School has recently established research hubs in Complex Human Data, Decision Science, Ethics and Well-being, and Brain and Mental Health and has also developed major initiatives in behaviour change (Melbourne Centre for Behaviour Change) and contemplative studies (Centre for Contemplative Studies). We have a large undergraduate teaching program and postgraduate research and professional training programs.

The School is seeking to appoint an outstanding individual who is currently working in the School and nearing the end of their salary support for a 3-year fellowship position. The position will conduct research in their area of expertise under the supervision of an existing member of staff in the School, and also carry out some teaching and research supervision duties.

The successful applicant will show well-developed research skills in their area of expertise and in classroom teaching and research supervision at honours level. The successful applicant will be expected to participate actively in the School’s teaching, administration, and engagement activities. She or he will be expected to support the broad ethos of the School and the School’s compliance with University policies and procedures, including environmental health and safety.

We foster a values-based culture of innovation and creativity to enhance the research performance of the University and to achieve excellence in teaching and research outcomes.

We invest in developing the careers and wellbeing of our students and staff and expect all our leaders to live our values of:

- Collaboration and teamwork
- Compassion
- Respect
- Integrity
- Accountability

1. Key Responsibilities

1.1 Research and Research Training
- Conduct research in the candidate’s area of expertise under limited supervision of a member of the academic staff of the School.
- Disseminate research findings through scientific publications and conference presentations.
Supervise or Co-supervise fourth year/honours students and/or higher degree research students.

1.2 TEACHING AND LEARNING

Providing teaching (25 contact hours per year) into the broad area of Psychological Sciences. This may include one or more of the following:

- Convene a course, or lecture into a course.
- Participating in the development of new course/subject material and review of existing courses/subjects in consultation with the Director of Teaching and Learning.
- Leading research seminar groups in the third year ‘Capstone’ subject and contributing to the assessment of this subject as required.
- Providing academic counselling and advice to students as well as administrative functions related to academic duties.
- Maintaining an ongoing subject presence on the University’s Learning Management System (LMS), which includes monitoring posts to the Discussion Board.

1.3 ENGAGEMENT

- Contributing to the School’s portfolio of external relations activities, particularly with regards to student engagement.
- Participate in student academic advising.

1.4 LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE

- Participating in relevant academic committees (e.g. Board of Examiners and/or the ethics committee).
- Contributing to the Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences through participating in staff and other committee meetings, strategic planning and policy development.
- Being involved in relevant professional organisations.
- Other duties commensurate with the position as directed by the Supervisor.
- Occupational Health and Safety (OH&S) responsibilities as outlined in section 3.

1.5 ADMINISTRATION

- Assisting with sessional staff administration as required.
- Ensuring compliance with School and University academic policies and procedures in areas such as assessment submission, marking, plagiarism, etc.
- Managing student attendance records as required.
- Other duties commensurate with the position as directed by the Supervisor.

2. Selection Criteria

2.1 ESSENTIAL

- PhD in psychology or cognate discipline
Evidence of advanced research skills, demonstrated by a significant record of scholarly publication
Evidence of well-developed oral and written communication skills
An understanding of the interlinked strands of research, teaching and engagement in the University’s mission statement, Growing Esteem.
A willingness and ability to contribute to the activities of the School of Psychological Sciences through administration, engagement, and service to the discipline.

2.2 DESIRABLE
- Evidence of prior successful grant funding.
- Previous experience with general academic administration such as assisting with subject coordination, course advice and examination or equivalent, and development of curriculum resources.
- A developed profile in scholarly activity and research as it relates to teaching and learning and its outcomes for courses conducted in the School.
- Demonstrated teaching and/or research experience in clinical psychology/professional practice.
- Demonstrated experience with research methods and statistical analysis.
- Experience in overseeing the activities of undergraduate tutors in the Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences.

3. Equal Opportunity, Diversity and Inclusion
The University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing a workplace free from all forms of unlawful discrimination, harassment, bullying, vilification and victimisation. The University makes decisions on employment, promotion, and reward on the basis of merit.

The University is committed to all aspects of equal opportunity, diversity and inclusion in the workplace and to providing all staff, students, contractors, honorary appointees, volunteers and visitors with a safe, respectful and rewarding environment free from all forms of unlawful discrimination, harassment, vilification and victimisation. This commitment is set out in the Advancing Melbourne strategy that addresses diversity and inclusion, equal employment opportunity, discrimination, sexual harassment, bullying and appropriate workplace behaviour. All staff are required to comply with all University policies.

The University values diversity because we recognise that the differences in our people’s age, race, ethnicity, culture, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, physical ability and background bring richness to our work environment. Consequently, the People Strategy sets out the strategic aim to drive diversity and inclusion across the University to create an environment where the compounding benefits of a diverse workforce are recognised as vital in our continuous desire to strive for excellence and reach the targets of Advancing Melbourne.
4. Occupational Health and Safety (OHS)

All staff are required to take reasonable care for their own health and safety and that of other personnel who may be affected by their conduct.

OHS responsibilities applicable to positions are published at:

https://safety.unimelb.edu.au/people/community/responsibilities-of-personnel

These include general staff responsibilities and those additional responsibilities that apply for Managers and Supervisors and other Personnel.

5.4 ADVANCING MELBOURNE

The University’s strategic direction is grounded in its purpose. While its expression may change, our purpose is enduring: to benefit society through the transformative impact of education and research. Together, the vision and purpose inform the focus and scale of our aspirations for the coming decade.

Advancing Melbourne reflects the University’s commitment to its people, its place, and its partners. Our aspiration for 2030 is to be known as a world-leading and globally connected Australian university, with our students at the heart of everything we do.

- We will offer students a distinctive and outstanding education and experience, preparing them for success as leaders, change agents and global citizens.
- We will be recognised locally and globally for our leadership on matters of national and global importance, through outstanding research and scholarship and a commitment to collaboration.
- We will be empowered by our sense of place and connections with communities. We will take opportunities to advance both the University and the City of Melbourne in close collaboration and synergy.
We will deliver this through building a brilliant, diverse and vibrant University community, with strong connections to those we serve.

The means for achieving these goals include the development of the University of Melbourne’s academic and professional staff and the capabilities needed to support a modern, world-class university. Those means require a commitment to ongoing financial sustainability and an ambitious infrastructure program which will reshape the campus and our contribution to the communities we engage with. This strategy, and the priorities proposed, is centred around five intersecting themes; place, community, education, discovery and global.
